CHEST DISEASE REPORTS

Editor-in-Chief: to be appointed

Chest Disease Reports is a peer-reviewed international medical journal devoted entirely to the study, diagnosis, and treatment of all conditions of chest-related diseases.

These include – but are not limited to – pulmonology, respiratory medicine, cardiology, thoracic surgery and transplantation, critical care, abdomen and chest disease, and sleep medicine.

The primary intent of the Journal will be to rapidly publish clinically relevant information that will directly improve the care of patients.

Basic science studies and experimental papers of interest to those treating disorders will also be considered for publication.
